NFPA and The Center for Campus Fire Safety announce winners of 2015 Campus Fire Safety for Students Contest
Co-sponsor Domino’s to provide two winners with pizza party for 50 friends

October 30, 2015 – The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), The Center for Campus Fire Safety (The Center) and the University of New Haven Fire Science Club (UNH) today announced the winners of its Campus Fire Safety for Students Contest. Three winners were chosen from the more than 100 students who participated from 31 schools nationwide.

The two-tiered Contest, which ran September 1 – 25 in conjunction with Campus Fire Safety Month, targeted students currently enrolled in an institution of higher learning and was created to help raise awareness of campus fires and encourage students to put safety first. Most college students, many living on their own for the first time, don’t often think to ask or even consider the fire safety implications of their housing choices, and most states don’t require colleges to tell them. The Contest encourages students to learn about and share important fire safety messages with their friends and roommates.

To participate, students watched a one-minute campus fire safety video and entered their name and school information into a sweepstakes where two winners were randomly selected to win a Domino’s-sponsored pizza party for 50 of their friends. The winners are:

1. Jake Akstins, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Champaign, Illinois
2. Jose Garcia Cintora, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware

Students were also encouraged to enter the second-tier of the Contest to win an iPad mini 4 by submitting a 200-word paragraph about the steps they will take to help keep themselves and their peers safer from fire on campus. One winner was chosen based on the clarity and thoughtfulness of the written statement, as well as the creativity in the development of the fire safety idea. The winner is:

According to NFPA statistics, fires in dormitories, fraternities, sororities and student barracks increased 24 percent from 3,350 fires in 2003 to 4,160 fires in 2013. The Center states from 2000 through October 2014, 126 students died in 89 fires on college campuses, in Greek housing, or in privately owned off-campus housing within three miles of the campus. Of those, 107 deaths occurred in fires in off-campus housing. At least four fatal off-campus fires have occurred this year, including deaths in South Dakota, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Washington D.C.

The Center will hold its 16th annual Campus Fire Forum and Technology Expo in Niagara Falls, New York, October 26-29. The Forum is the only national conference that focuses exclusively on campus fire and life safety issues. Attendees include college university professionals, members of the fire service, city and state authorities and others. Learn more at www.campusfiresafety.org/trainingactivities.
